

Co-operation among public collections

Körös-Maros Cultural Heritage Website – pilot database

One public libraries from five countries each take part in Interreg IIIC Light European Union project.

We intend to create a user-friendly, interactive website under the name of Körös-Maros Cultural Heritage Website, where people can quickly find such reliable and accurate information in connection with the cultural heritage of the region that are necessary for running, launching an enterprise, for studying, doing researches or for any other reasons.

When creating the website we took into consideration several aspects: the needs of the users, our already existing websites, possible co-operating partners (archive, museum), information provided by them, our software, the developments necessary for the implementation, our colleagues, external experts, our financial resources.

The pilot public collection website will be ready by September 2006. By that time only the pilot phase will be finished, of course, we would like to continue developing it.