

Thin client: That Obscure Object of Desire

Why would you use thin client architecture?

Because we do not like working. More precisely: we do not like working with clients.

Furthermore: because thin client support is a pleasure; the software can be updated easily; it's power consumption is low; the investment is cost effective - and so on.

But does this technology really satisfy our desires?

We tried it (codename: Forrásközpont) and now we can share our experience with you.